Supplément au Manifeste du Politique de confidentialité de Shopis, Inc.

Shopis is open and global; it is the publisher and distributor of the most advanced collaborative shopping management software and applications ever created. It embodies some of our most fundamental hopes for user data processing. It offers new possibilities for learning and developing an Artificial Intelligence (AI) model. DeepAI, of common belonging to everyone for resolutions of real problems faced by individuals around the world.

Over the past few decades, we've seen this promise of privacy fulfilled in many ways, sometimes with missteps. We've also seen the power of personal data used as transactions to amplify divisions, incentivize cyberattacks, promote data monetization, and obliterate the original mission or change the product's direction. We realized we needed to more clearly articulate our aspirations for how user data is handled, protected, and shared. We're doing that now.

Personal data is not a commercial product!
